Selecting your topic Five Rs for thinking about historical significance Remarkable – the event or development was remarked upon by people at the time and/or since Remembered – the event or development was important at some stage in history within the collective memory of a group or groups. Resonant – people life to make analogies with it; it is possible to connect with experiences, beliefs or situations across time and space. Resulting in change – it had consequences. Revealing – of some other aspect of the past.

Selecting your topic

- There are a few things to consider, when deciding your CBA 1 topic:
  - Are you interested in the topic?
  - Can you get more than one good source for this topic?
  - Can you gather a lot of information about your topic?
  - Does your topic connect to the history of Ireland and/or the wider world?

Sources

- Once you have selected your topic, you then need to identify your sources for the CBA. The sources used mist be cited in a bibliography at the end of the CBA. You should try to get at least two different sources (for example, a book (written) and a documentary (visual)).
- When finding sources, ask yourself what question you are trying to answer and consider what question you are trying to answer and consider what source might be suitable.
- For example:
  - If you are researching what life looked like during a certain time, photographs give great visual detail.
  - If you are looking into local placenames, old maps would be useful.
  - If you are looking into family history, interviewing a family member would be useful.
  - You must be careful to make sure your information is reliable and that you have cross-checked it with another source.
